

Call for Participation

68. Studentische Tagung Sprachwissenschaft (StuTS), November 19-22, 2020

Organised by students from Freie Universität Berlin, Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin and Universität Potsdam

Digital edition

We invite all students of linguistics (as well as study programmes with a partial focus on languages) to present their current course projects, theses or other projects from their studies to a broad, diverse audience of their fellow peers at the 68th StuTS. Bachelors', Masters', and PhD students alike are all welcome to submit their contributions!

Contributions are required to:

- Follow one of three formats:
  - Workshops, 30-120 minutes in length;
  - Talks, 20 minutes plus 10 minutes for discussion;
(Longer talks spanning multiple 30-minute slots are also acceptable)
  - Short talks outlining projects or concepts, 5 minutes plus 5 minutes for discussion;
- Aim to impart linguistic knowledge and/or methodological skills;
- Be presented in a language of your choosing.
  - German and English are established staples.
  - When choosing another language, a high level of proficiency is a prerequisite.

Send us your submission in the form of a short, informative abstract by October 12th by clicking here. For questions regarding the structure and/or contents of your abstract, we have provided a short manual in our FAQ tab. If you have any further questions regarding the submission process, feel free to contact us via email.
