

19th STaPs

Munich/Mainz/Cologne

The 19th STaPs (Sprachwissenschaftliche Tagung für Promotionsstudierende) will take place online on Friday, March 25th and Saturday, March 26th of 2022.

As this event takes place online, we had the opportunity to build a decentral team for a change, from the universities of Munich, Mainz and Cologne – or “MüMaK”, derived from the German names.

STaPs. The STaPs as a conference by PhD students for PhD students puts emphasis not on results like other conferences do, but on methodology and theoretical issues. You don't have to be able to present any results to participate. On the contrary, here, you are welcome to focus on your methods and express the challenges you might be facing. For this reason, this conference is particularly addressed to doctoral candidates in the beginning phase of their thesis. Projects of any area of linguistics can be presented (theoretical and descriptive linguistics as well as psycho-, neuro-, sociolinguistics and computer linguistics; synchronic or diachronic)

Program. We are looking forward to seeing your talks and workshops! (more under registration). There will be three wonderful keynotes, and one centrally organized workshop, as well as a discussion panel.

More information will be provided under Programm & Book of Abstracts (once everything will be ready).

Registration. You can find more information here and the registration form here, whether you want to hold a talk or a workshop or just participate as a listener.

Call for Participation. Click here to submit an abstract for a talk or make an offer for a workshop.

Deadlines.

- registration: 17.03.2022
- abstracts for talks: 31.01.2022
- abstracts for workshops: 10.01.2022.

Contact. If you want to contact us, write to staps19@staps.stuts.eu. And follow us on Twitter! Here

We are looking forward to having you at the digital STaPs!

Your decentral STaPs19 team
(Barbara, Lisa, Marvin & Rebecca)